
Acknowledgements

We thank Liz Lerman and Naomi Jackson for co-directing the international conference of “Jews and Jewishness in the Dance World” at Arizona State University (ASU) and we acknowledge that Naomi Jackson encouraged Judith Brin Ingber and Ruth Eshel to realize this Issue no. 36 of Mahol Akhshav (Dance Today). It was Eshel who originated the idea that Issue no. 36 should all be in English, devoted to papers, panels, performance and presentations from the international ASU conference transformed into the essays in this issue (Usually the magazine appears with only a few English essays, two times a year).

We thank each of the authors for their originality, research, writing and gifting us with their essays. The authors include Miriam Berger with Joanna Gewertz Harris, Marsha Permuter Kalina and Johanna Climenko; Judith Chazin-Bennahum; Rima Farber; Jennifer Fisher; Laure Guilbert; Yehuda Hyman; Judith Brin Ingber; Marilyn Jackson; Marion Kant; Elizabeth McPherson; Alexander H. Schwan; Silvina

Szperling; Joanne Tucker; Jacqueline Waltz; Diane Wawrejko. We thank Roger Beck for his flawless copy editing. We also thank Lynn Garafola; Judy Libman; Dana K. Kassel; and regarding photos we thank The Museum of the City of New York; the Museum of Tolerance; Yad VaShem; Libby Smigel of the Library of Congress; Andrea Amort and her staff at the Theater Museum of Vienna; Primavera Boman-Behram; Judith Chazin-Bennahum; Sonya Everett; Michael Hunold; Thomas Kunz; Kate Rys for family photos; Wilhelm Willinger; and other individual photographers each credited within the different articles. Regarding translations, some of the authors provided their own, especially Judith Chazin-Bennahum from the French to English; Marion Kant from the German; Laure Guilbert, from both German and French. Alexander H. Schwan from German to English and Jacqueline Waltz from German to English; Silvina Szperling from Spanish to English; other translators were Blanka Brichta from Czech to English; Helen Elazar from Hebrew to English; Tamara Thomasson and Eric Newton from Russian to English.